Arlon Graphics Announces New President Andrew McNeill

Placentia, CA – January 28, 2016 – Arlon Graphics, LLC, manufacturer of high quality pressure-sensitive print media, cut vinyl and flexible substrates for the sign and graphics industries, today announced the appointment of Andrew McNeill as President. Mr. McNeill brings more than 25 years of relevant industry experience to his new role having previously served as President and Chief Operating Officer of Reflexite Corporation for several years and as Chief Executive Officer of Orafol Americas, formerly Reflexite. During his tenure with Reflexite and Orafol Americas, he led their growth into a global leader in reflective materials and solar lenses.

In addition to his experience at Orafol and Reflexite, he has served as CEO and Management Consultant for clients in the medical device, industrial safety products, chemical distribution, aerospace, financial compliance, steel erection and multi-family housing sectors.

"Andrew has experience in leading and transitioning companies to make them global leaders within their industries. We welcome Andrew's experience and leadership to the Arlon family," states Neil McDonough, President and CEO, FLEXcon, Inc. "In his new role as President, he will be responsible for driving our business toward industry leading customer satisfaction through execution and innovation with our partners worldwide. His results-oriented approach and ability to think strategically will play a pivotal role in extending our track record of manufacturing quality products, while helping us grow as a company and be prepared for the new opportunities we create."

"I am honored to be leading this talented group of people and look forward to developing the Arlon mission of being the "Partner of Choice" to our customers in the sign and graphics industry," states Mr. McNeill.

Mr. McNeill earned his BSC in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Nottingham and MBA in business from the University of Manchester, Manchester Business School.

Additionally, Arlon is pleased to announce two strategic promotions: Chad Russell to VP of Sales, The Americas and Australia and Holly Curtis to Director of Marketing. Chad has been an integral part of Arlon's sales organization for over 12 years and has been instrumental in developing a world class sales organization. Holly has driven Arlon's marketing communications and brand to be a leader in the industry for over 8 years. In Holly's new role, she is responsible for overseeing Marketing Communications, Product Management and Customer Service.
